

Information analysis agency Rustele.com has been present in the market of consulting services for more than 10 years. It has started operating in the field of telecommunications in 2006 and since then established itself as a leading independent provider of first-class analytical reports on the regional telecommunications market.

The company efforts to ensure information transparency and disclosure considerably affected the development of civilized securities market in North-West of Russia. We are really glad to tell you all about us and our services by means of this web-site. Here you can find the list of analytical reports that are available at the moment as well as detailed information about the current issues of telecommunications market in North-West of Russian Federation.

Rustele.com's area of expertise is thorough monitoring of the second biggest, in terms of sales volume, telecommunications market in the Russian Federation – North-Western Federal District. Our main goal is providing our clients with verified information originating from reliable sources, our own researches and leading industry's experts interviewing. As for now Rustelecom issues 40 different reports per year. From the very moment of market appearance our agency had been considered a reliable source of information and consultancy for the business and niche media of the region and the whole Russia. Agency's general director – Yuri Bryukvin – is included by the Kommersant newspaper in the rating of 25 most opened St. Petersburg top-managers. Among Rustele.com clients are 8 out of 10 region's leading telecommunications operators.

Why choose Rustele.com?

- We perform research and analysis of data about all the elements of telecommunications industry's sectors in all region's major towns.
- We ensure regular issuance of industry's development forecasts in both long-term and short-term outlooks.
- Our reports are subject to further improvement and addition of any complementary information according to client's requirements.
- The client also can design the report by himself! Buying the minimum of five chapters it is possible to compose your own report out of sections of various reports that you consider being of any interest for you.

- Our prices really challenge the market of consultancy in the telecommunications sector.

Apart from creating reports at client's request our scope of activity includes carrying out independent researches of NWFED telecommunications market. Rustele.com regularly publishes leading companies' ratings in respect of EBITDA, revenue, total number of subscriptions, average subscriber churn rate, planned investments and other activities and other key-figures. More information about scheduled researches and list of issued ones are available in our sales department and on the pages of this web-site.

One of particular areas of our researching job is creation of database on leading regional telecommunications community's members. At the moment it includes about 80 profiles distributed by region's sub-markets. Each profile contains detailed information about company's development basic stages, financial results, property structure; companies' top-management data includes biographical details and contact information.